Dr. J. W. H. The University of Virginia Athletic Association, has consented to give the use of the light and the facilities there free of charge.

The association has held tour outdoor championship, all at Homewood in Baltimore. The first was won by Hopkins, but Virginia captured the next three, winning one of them by half a point from the Black and Blue.

The meet this year promises to be very close, Inasmuch as the contests will be held at a central point as far as the locations of the various institutions holding membership are conceived, the entry list will probably be larger from the schools further South which did not send men here. The University of North Carolina will, in all probability, be one of the surprises of the meet.
